

JAMES ALVIN McCULLOCH, JR., IS DROWNED IN BEAR LAKE AFTER DIVING FROM PLEASURE BOAT

James Alvin McCulloch, Jr., 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCulloch of this city was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing at Ideal Beach. According to the message received last night, he and three musicians who had gone to the resort to play for the opening dance last evening were rowing and swimming. Young McCulloch had been rowing vigorously and while overheated made a dive from the boat and swam some distance before he was seen to disappear below the surface of the water. All efforts to rescue the drowning lad were futile and, before he could be brought to the boat he was dead. Whether his heart action failed or he was taken with a cramp cannot be decided. The body left the resort under the care of Undertaker Kirkendall at 8 o'clock this morning and is now being prepared for burial.

He is survived by his parents, an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ellis of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Todd of Salt Lake City.

Alvin was well known in Ogden and Logan, where he attended school for the past year. While at Ogden high school he was prominent in every activity and stood high in the hearts of his school mates and teachers.

here he took part in many of the high school plays and activities, besides appearing before an Ogden audience in Battery B benefit show—and Knights of Columbus vaudeville. At the Utah Agricultural college he was chosen velle master, while still a freshman, which is an honor for a first-year student. Last year he attended the students' army training corps at Logan, winning for himself the rank of sergeant.

Alvin McCulloch was born in Grand Junction, Colorado, March 15, 1899, and came to Ogden with his parents at an early age.

The funeral arrangements are being made, the date of which will be announced later.

The Ogden Packing & Provision company has filed suit in the district court against the Union Pacific Railroad company and Walker D. Hines, director-general of the United States railroad administration to recover $375.50 alleged to be due for 23 barrels of frozen hog livers, which were to be transported to New York City and which, it is alleged, had spoiled when they reached their destination.

The plaintiff alleges that the hog livers were shipped from Ogden in a refrigerator car and that the damage enroute was due to the negligence upon the part of the defendants.

Home Service Bureau Seeks to Locate Minnie C. Taylor

The busiest period for the Home Service bureau of the Weber County chapter of the Red Cross since it was opened has been the past two months, according to a statement given out this morning. This has been due to the fact that many soldiers have been applying for information and assistance in getting their bonuses and travel pay as well as searching for parties entitled to allotment and allowances.

The local bureau has been asked to locate Minnie Charlotte Taylor, who has about $120 in allotments and allowances, but so far no trace of her has been found. An appeal was made to the postal authorities and it was learned that she once received mail through the general delivery here.

MISSING GIRLS MAY HAVE BEEN CARRIED OFF IN AUTO SEEN AT RIVERDALE BRIDGE

Mystified over the disappearance of Ruth Nerdin, Dora Nerdin and Edna Winslow, their parents this morning notified the police of their absence from home and also asked assistance in locating them.

According to the parents, the three young girls left their homes on Eighth street at 5 p. m. yesterday, to attend a picture show. When they failed to return late in the evening, members of the family started in search.

Every returning Bamberger train from Lagoon was closely watched without clue. A report was turned into the police early this morning and the search continued, but the girls have not yet been found.

Upon learning that the three girls were missing, Mr. Canon, manager of the Browning Automobile company, reported to the police that when he was returning from Lagoon last night he saw three young girls answering their description, talking to three men in an automobile just this side of the Riverdale bridge. The young women were standing in the road and the automobile was parked.

Another report received by the police this morning, stated that the three young girls were seen on Grant avenue, between Twenty-third street and Twenty-fourth street. The police are now investigating this report.

A good description of the men in the car with the three young ladies was furnished and the officers believe that the men can be traced.

Ruth Nerdin is a girl about 5 feet in height, 16 years of age, medium complexion and wore a white dress with no hat when she left home.

Dora is 13 years of age, has a light complexion and also was without a hat and wore a white dress.

Edna Winslow is 15 years of age and when she left home last night wore a dark dress with a white collar and tie.

Any information as to their whereabouts would be greatly appreciated by the parents of the girls. Mr. Nerdin lives at 549 Eighth street and can be reached by calling 1621-W. The Winslows live at 342 Ninth street.

Hampton, the colored victim of the highway robbers, came to Ogden today and positively identified the three.

FREE CLINIC OPENS AT CITY HALL ON MONDAY

The free clinic for the treatment of social diseases will be opened Monday by the city, according to a statement of City Physician W. R. Brown. The clinic quarters will be in room No. 16 on the second floor of the city hall, and free treatment will be furnished only to indigent patients.

In commenting this morning, Dr. Brown said:

"The clinic will be for the benefit of the community, but free treatment will be given only to indigents."

"We are to work in co-operation with the federal health service, and the main object is to stamp out social diseases. There will be hours on certain days of the week for male cases and on other days for female cases, and all the work will be under government inspection. Female cases will be treated from 11 to 12 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and male cases on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, from 4 to 5 p. m.

The state will provide a nurse who will assist in the examination of female cases and children, and she will have work outside of the clinic in visiting homes for the examination and care of children that have become afflicted.

"The police will co-operate with us and will bring in suspected cases for examination. The law grants the authority to make examinations in suspected cases. This work will be largely among women who frequent and reside at rooming houses and are suspected. If a case of disease is discovered the patient will be required to take the treatments."

"The treatments that will be given will be those that are regarded as standard by the government in the several classes of cases. Blood tests will be taken in certain cases, the work being completed through the laboratory at the university."

Labor Bureau May Be Sustained by the Government

The federal employment service may, after all, receive its appropriation from congress to carry on its notable work in this country. The senate finance committee has reintroduced the $272,000 item in the deficiency bill, which amount will enable the service to continue its work.

H. W. Beckett, Sr., examiner in charge of the employment bureau in this city, has received letters from A. D. Chiquoine, director of information, advising him to that effect.

Only Survivor of His Company Is Leslie Gwilliam

Leslie Gwilliam, son of Mrs. O. P. Gwilliam of this city, is enjoying a week-end furlough in Ogden from Fort Douglas, where he is awaiting discharge from the army. The young man was a runner in the 348th field battalion and was the only surviving member of his company.

The soldier was in peril continually while in service and it is quite remarkable that he survived inasmuch as his comrades were all killed in action.

Eltinge Costumes Cost a Fortune

THE costumes worn by Julian Eltinge, who appears at the Orpheum Sunday, are made by some of the smartest dressmakers in the world and he has thought nothing of spending four or five thousand dollars for an outfit. In make-up he wears a woman's number four shoe and out of make-up he wears a man's number seven, which, he says, has developed the nicest string of corns in the world.

He has three dressers who squeeze him into corsets and things that at one time threatened to cause a disease of the backbone that would have proven dangerous. These men (Japanese) are trained to their work; so that he frequently makes a change of costume in thirty seconds; he appears as a bride and leaves the stage in less than one minute is back on the stage dressed as a fashionable man.

Eltinge says, "It is very, very hard work but it pays," and as he wants to buy an attractive set of furniture or so from a "noble but impoverished" family in Europe who holds it at ten or fifteen thousand dollars, he says he will continue to try and amuse the public for a while longer.

UTAH Last Time Today AMERICA'S GREATEST CHARACTER ACTOR FRANK KEENAN in "The Midnight Stage"

With a very numerous company of cowboys, gamblers, dance hall girls, bartenders, waiters, musicians, sheriffs, express agents, stage-coach drivers and guards, etc. The locations of the drama are highly picturesque and in every way true to the spirit of the play, showing us the California of the early '60s as recorded in history. Embodying the plot of Irving's world-famed success, "The Lyons Mail," but transformed into an American drama of the wild western country of fifty years ago.
